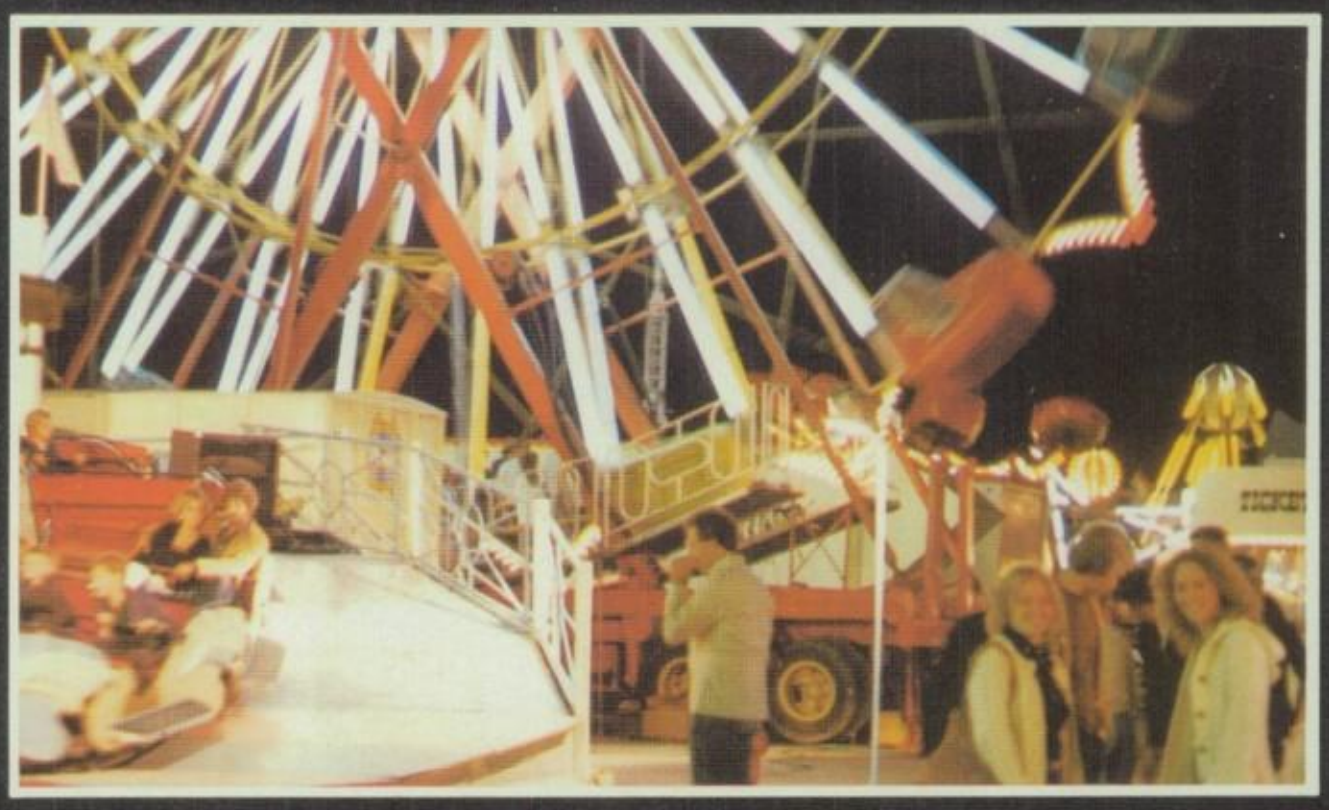
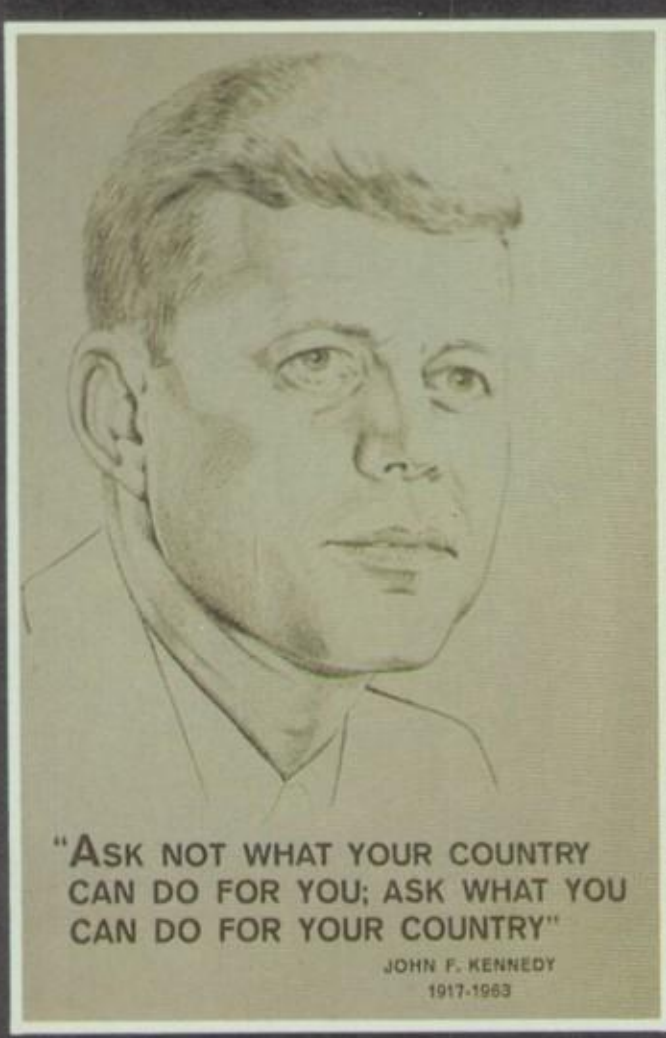
Reflections . . . the variations are many. The sun's rays on a pool of water, a smiling face in a mirror, the brilliance of one's personality. We can easily see mirrored images, but personality is a hidden trait, only made visible through everyday life.

Our experiences here at Kennedy, no matter what they are, will cast shadows upon our future lives. The years we spend at Kennedy will help to expand our understanding of ourselves as well as others.





"ASK NOT WHAT YOUR COUNTRY
CAN DO FOR YOU; ASK WHAT YOU
CAN DO FOR YOUR COUNTRY"

In years to come, will we reflect upon our years at Kennedy with an air of satisfaction? Did we make the best of our days? Are we leaving with fond memories? Do our personalities reflect our experiences at Kennedy?

Marco the

Mirrors should reflect a little before throwing back images.

Dedication

For making us laugh when we feel like crying.
For making achievement possible through the skills you helped us to develop.
For bringing out the leadership qualities of those who came under your guiding hand.

For giving us the time that most people don't have.
For making us realize our own value and being able to see it in others.
We dedicate this yearbook to you,
Mr. Lawrence Schull.

Dr. Joseph Gizinski Superintendent of Schools

One of the most precious of human faculties is Memory. Do not think of it as a tool for learning and advancement, but as a storehouse of treasures. It provides us with reflections of the past — vivid pictures of beauty appreciated, heart-warming reminiscences of friends we've known, tender thoughts of family, satisfaction of recalling work well done, a feeling that we have meant something to those who meant so much to us — highlights stored in memory's treasure house to be recalled at will to encourage and sustain us whenever we need them.

We can be selective in our memories and reflect only the unpleasant things — the malicious acts, the discouragements, the friendships betrayed, the thoughtless acts which hurt unnecessarily. This type of reflection will only lead one to recrimination and remorse.

I wish you pleasant reflections so you may enjoy Roses in December.

Mr. Henry Andrzejewski, Principal

Now that we have once again reached the end of a school year, we stop to think about what has occurred, what we have accomplished, and what lies ahead of us. For the Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors, the immediate future holds more time in the classroom, on the playing field, and at social functions — time to develop your skills and increase your potential. For the Seniors it holds the unknown. Whatever the future offers, the manner in which you approach it is a reflection of your training, both at home and here at Kennedy.

During the past four years, you have acquired the knowledge and character traits that will shape your future. These have been the foundation upon which the future must be built. What you have gained from these years will be reflected in you and your actions as you take your place in the larger society of the world. For those who remain, the future will provide more time to build a solid foundation. Consider your future carefully and build wisely and well, for the building will be only as strong as its foundation.

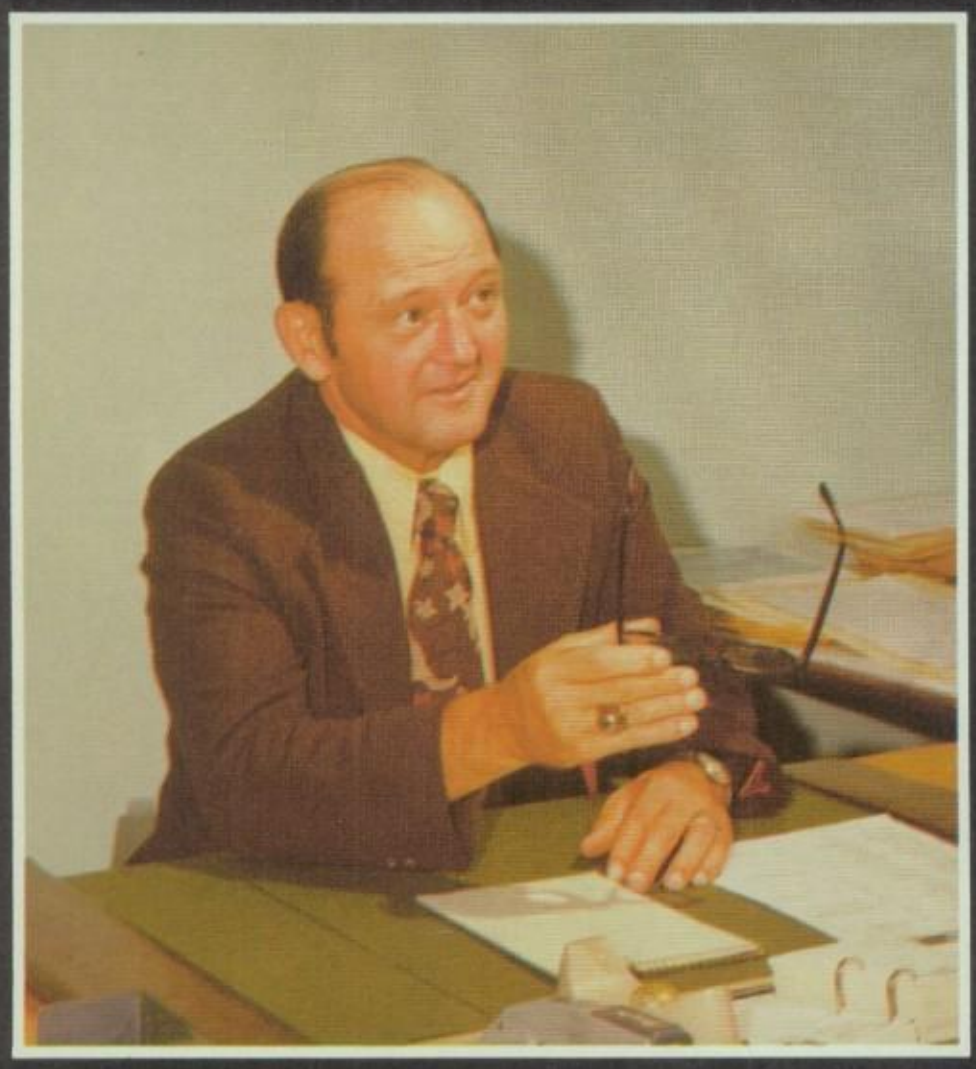
Seniors, you stand at the threshold of the future. Show us the abilities which you have developed. No matter what you choose — education or the non-professional world, the way you have spent the past years will be mirrored in the way you face life. In all you do, you will reflect the many forces — academic, athletic and social — which you have thus far encountered.

Mr. Henry Zwierzchowski
Assistant Principal

"Reflections" is a fitting theme for an end to any period of time. This is especially true for the seniors as they conclude the last of their years. As each class leaves, they take with them their own bundles of memories. These include the activities and good times along with the knowledge acquired — not only about subjects, but about people and situations.

We here at John F. Kennedy hope that these memories will assist our students in their future lives, that what they have learned will be of great benefit to them always. What they remember will always be theirs to keep. A student should leave not only with the impression of the school on him, but an impression of him on the school.

Participating in the victories and defeats, pitching in with school spirit, joining the after-school activities, meeting people, solving problems — all this adds up to what could be both good experience and years of happy, lucent reflections.



Guidance

Bernard Kurowski

Eugene Norton

Guidance counselors are involved in not only their own futures, but the futures of the many others they deal with. They provide not only goals, but also ways to achieve them. Their presence provides students with new ideas to look forward to upon leaving high school.

Director of Guidance

Language Arts

Teachers of the English language are confronted with challenges in their jobs. Not only do they strive for the development of young imaginations, but they try to improve the skills of reason and appreciation of fine literature.

Social Studies

David Peters

Diana Maly, Daniel Gasiewicz

Fred Zelasko, Albert Zizzi, Walter Ward

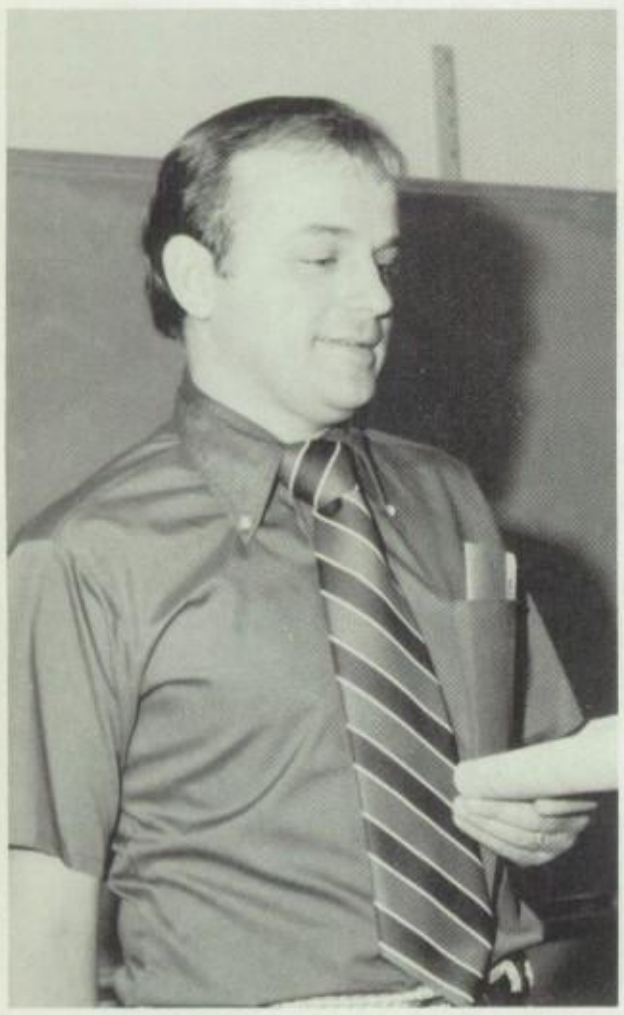
Joseph Czyrny, Norman Pyzikiewicz

Social Studies is usually thought of as facts from past history. It is far more than that. Different lifestyles are studied in Afro-Asian Cultures, European Cultures and American History. People as consumers and individuals are dealt with in Consumer Ed., Sociology and Economics.

Mathematics

Mathematics is a subject of challenge, logic and reward. The development of the Algebraic skills leads to the more intriguing problems of Geometry, Trigonometry and even Calculus. The learning of mathematics never ends, but the understanding of the subject becomes better.

Carolyn Maslona, Edward Fialkiewicz



Richard Andrzejewski

Kathleen Herman, Thomas LaPenna

Science

Rita Domhart, Patricia Schupbach

Science gives us reasons why and how things happen in our lives. The understanding of these reasons can be sharpened in advanced courses in Chemistry and Biology. All are helpful to both the college-bound student and the student who wishes to obtain a technical job after school.

The business world is a big one, and the Business Department prepares its students for such a world. The many different fields, from Typing to Business Law, are all covered.

Sandra Willhoff, Suzanne Herron

Industrial and Fine Arts

Joseph Nikiel, Stanley Radomski

Both industrial and fine arts are excellent courses offered at J.F.K. Industrial arts provides students with experience in Electronics, Wood, Metal, and Architecture. Fine Arts offers students vastly exciting courses from Studio in Art to Advanced Drawing and Painting. This is a rewarding and enriching experience that should not be overlooked.

Charles Miecznikowski, Mary Ann Nilsson, John Borsuk

Foreign Language and Library

Sheryl Olson, Michelle Edson

Richard Meloon

Stanislaus Dabrowski

Knowledge of foreign languages provides students with inner views of lifestyles other than their own. New opportunities also open up with each language.

Marilyn Zalenski, Cathy Snyder

The library gives students a place to go inside of the school for quick information and possible career choices.

Physical Education, Health and Music

Candace Jachimiak, Pamela Kilmer

Physical Education gives students a time of day to drop their mental burden and let loose. Every student is provided with the chance to take part in physical activity and develop physical skills along with developing sportsmanship.

Health Courses allow students to learn more about the maintenance of their own bodies. Such courses go hand in hand with physical education.

Dennis Piekarski, Leonard Kosobucki

Andrew Ziemba

The Music Department trains students with the musical ability and the desire to follow a career in this art. Along with the course are activities such as the Marching Band, the Jazz Ensemble and Music Appreciation.

Rock -n- Roll

Our date! It was so wonderful!

You've got to be kidding!

Hubs, Bubs and Stubs . . . Da Wheels!

Smile pretty, girls!

Alone on Prom night.

Look at those dimples!

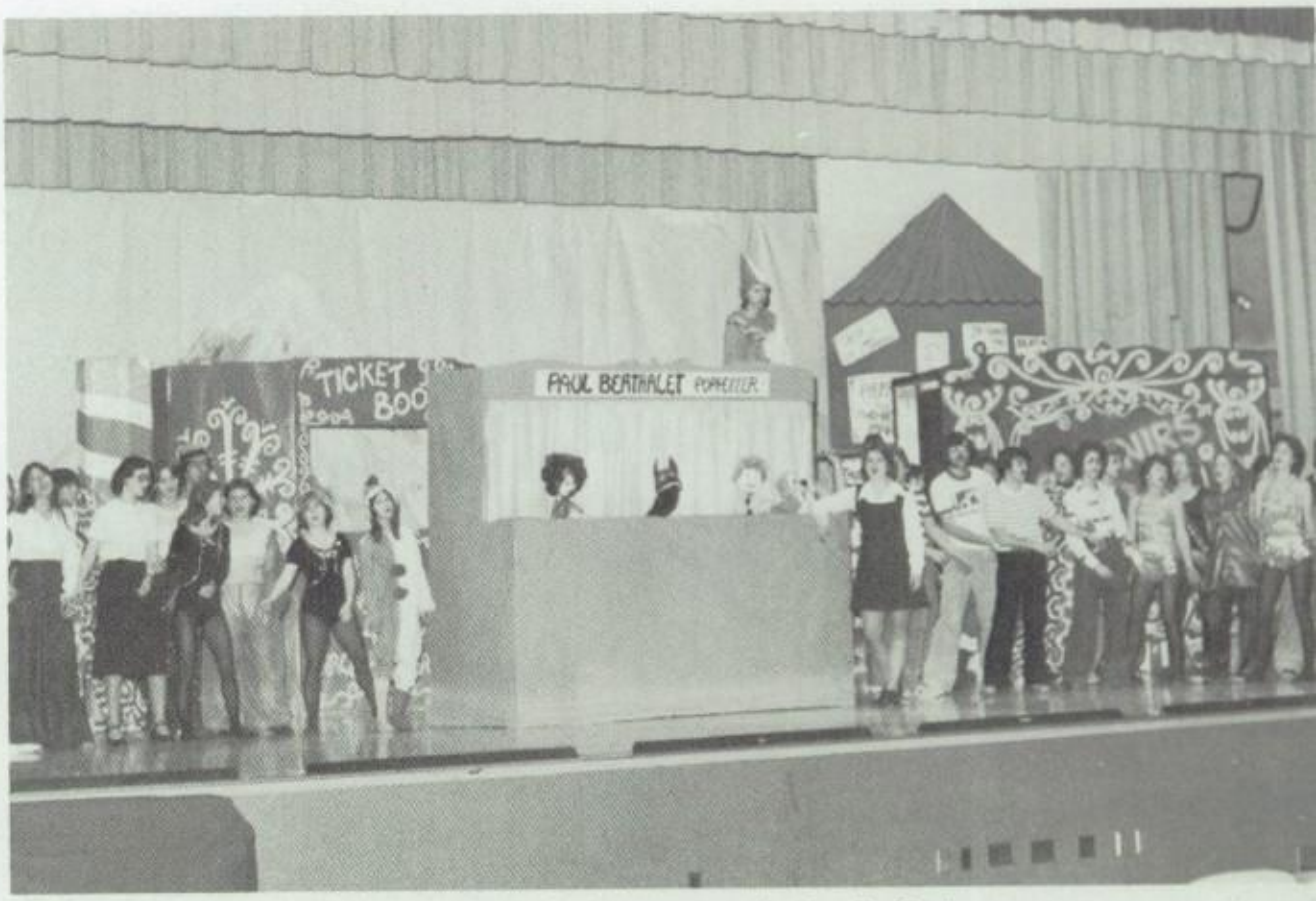
Violà, a threesome of hams.

Cookie is given an extra hand.

An exciting night with the jocks.

Carnival

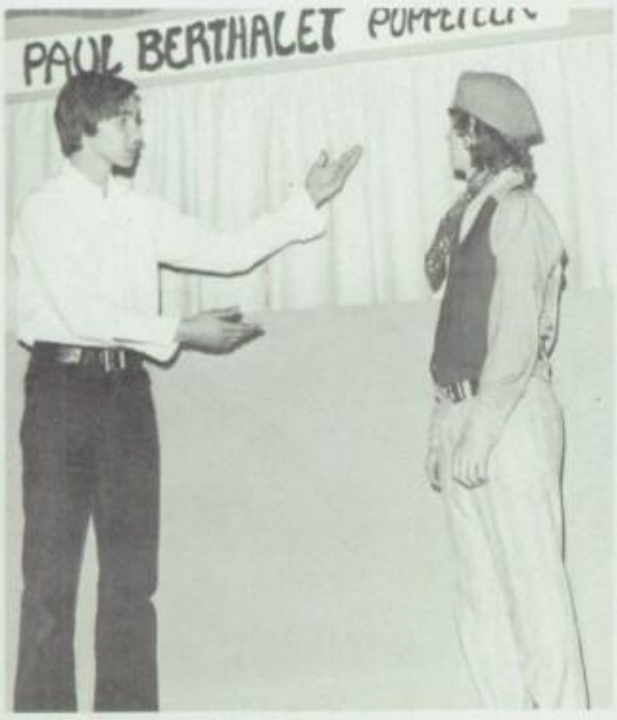
Tom Kittell bites his lip, deep in concentration.



The cast of "Carnival" gets together for the finale.

Julie Slisz gossips with a few of her friends.

The Bluebird Girls doing their number.



Paul Kittell explains, "I can't open the curtain, Greg. My puppets are dressing."

Paul Kittell says, "No this isn't my Raggedy Ann doll."

Rose Anne Stachura says, "Let's have another round, Chuck."

Ring Dance 1977

One more for the road!

Oh, well, we'll have to cut your finger off!

Of course I can dance, I just don't feel like it!

Sue receives her ring from Mr. A.

I get no kick from champagne!

That's high enough Tim.

The Junior Class Officers with Mr. A. and Mr. Z.

1977 Prom

Mark Obarka and Debbie Biedron on Prom night.

An enjoyable dinner at the Trap and Field Club.

Mike Connor and Sharon Haak being crowned King and Queen of the Prom along with their court.

Connie Quibell and Bill Rieck arguing over the spilled salad.

Anne Bystrak asks, "Doesn't anyone want to dance?"

The President of the Class of '77 takes a stroll with his First Lady.

Postgraduates exclaim, "Nazdrowie!"

Everybody smile!

The calm before the storm.

All the parents of yearbook staff members for their cooperation and consideration
All faculty, staff, and students who have helped to make this yearbook possible.

Your friends say they'll keep in touch, but you know they won't. Your teachers say come back and see them. And you know you won't. Maybe someday it won't matter. But right now, it hurts a little.
